

Carolyn Porco presents...

At Saturn Tripping the Flight Fantastic

Boulder planetary scientist Carolyn Porco, leader of the imaging team for NASA's Cassini mission to Saturn and science advisor for the forthcoming movie Star Trek, guides you on a magical mystery tour around the ringed planet in this highly anticipated lecture. Come and witness the wonders, discoveries, and the awesome natural beauty of this amazing planet and its family of rings and moons.

Porco's inspiring presentations have been acclaimed by audiences across the U.S., Canada, and Europe. Now she brings the drama of humankind's most daring adventure to a Boulder audience.

Monday, April 28, 2008 at 7:30pm
University of Colorado at Boulder
University Memorial Center Glenn Miller Ballroom

FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

Reservations advised. Visit <http://diamondskyproductions.com> to reserve tickets.

Sponsored by The American Astronomical Society Division on Dynamical Astronomy and Space Science Institute

